"Whose can hold the sea has command of the situation"
Themistokles

With the time many personalities influenced the development of the city. Politicians were changing different visions were planed and each one set different priorities. Through this colorful past Pireas gets to this what it is today, big fights were fought and as the harbor of Athens it plays always an important role in the history of Greece.